WILLIAMS QUITS IN MAY SUTTON LEADS THE TENTH ROUND

Smith Proves Too Much of a Ring General for Wyoming

CLAIMS SMITH FOULED IN EIGHTH ROUND

Doctor Says No: Referee Painter Awards Decision to Denver "Rube."

"Rube" Smith of Denver made it so comfortable in the first nine rounds of a scheduled twenty-round boxing contest New Year's afternoon, at Lagoon, for Churles Williams of Colorado Springs. Wyo, that the latter refused to come up when the gong sounded the tenth ound, and positively refused to box any more. Williams claimed that he was fouled in the eighth round, which was a evelation to 1500 people present. Every revelation to 1500 people present. Every indication pointed to a clean uight by Smith, who never took advantage of his opponent, who was knocked down several times during the contest and who took the full count at such times. Dr. Eichards made a nurried examination of Williams at the ringside and said that no foul was committed in his opinion. At any rare, Williams refused to go on again and the large crowd was dishisted, although the fight proved satisfactory, Smith being declared the victor of Referen Tem Painter.

From the tap of the bell until the last round the men tried hard to land a receasional thud, when Williams would hit the floor from a well-directed left from Smith. Both usen provid mixers, but in the last three rounds it was quite apparent that Williams would have to lose to ring generalship, and he took a severe beating before he gave in. He was knocked down twice in the last round and Smith's gloves were playing a tattoo on body and bead. Williams was wild and mith's gloves were playing a fattoo on ody and head. Williams was wild and ucked into several right swings, which did not help him. It was anybody's fight op to the sixth round, but after that Wil-nams was grougy in all following rounds, the bell invariably saving him.

The men stepped into the ring at 4.10, then Smith, A. Price, Andy Mallov and Spike Sullivan were in Smith's corner; Manager Jack McDonald, Kid Chiver and Kid Herrick helped Williams.

Two red-hot preliminaries were given to start the ball rolling, which were well werth the price of admission. King C. Tolles, sergeant of Company B of the Fifteenth infantry, won a decision over Frank Sellick in six fast rounds. Sellick was knocked down in the first round and looked an easy loser, but staved to the last and crowded Tolles so much that the laster could not deliver a knockout in

First round—Men rushed to center of ing and clinched. Williams shot right o jaw and Smith counters with left. Ex-hanged blows to head and wind and in linch, Infight. COMISKEY MAY ABANDON EXPENSIVE BALL TRIP

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.—It appears possible that the projected tour to California and Hawali of the Chicago team of the American Banchail league may be called off unless President Comiskey secures better transportation rates for the trans-continental trip than he has thus far been able to obtain. If the Pacific trip is abandoned, the team will likely be taken to Texas and begin the summer's work with a series of games with the Texas league. Mr. Comiskey would like to take his men to California and he is impressed with the idea that Honolulu would be quite an ideal training place, the only objection being the less of time on the ocean trip. The matter will probably be decided this week.

RIVALRY AT HOME AS WELL AS IN FIELD

Special to The Tribune.

SANTAQUIN, Jan. 1.—In a match rabbit hunt here today, the single men defeated the married men by a total kill of sixty rabbits to thirty. The contest was held for the expenses of a dance and supper, to which the wives and sweethearts of the shooters were invited. The girls backed their beaux in the contest, and there was about as much rivairy between the married and single ladies as there was on the hunting grounds between the men.

ATTELL IS UNABLE TO DEFEAT MORAN

English Champion Fights American Featherweight to 25-Round Draw.

CONTEST IS NOT UP TO CHAMPIONSHIP STANDARD

Attell Refuses to Fight Unless Paid $250 Extra for Two Ounces.

COLMA ARENA, Jan. 1.-Owen Moran, champion featherweight of England, made a draw fight of twenty-five rounds with Abe Attell, champion of America, who was thought to be invincible at that weight. Moran was strong and aggressive, quick as a finsh, and kept on top of Attell all the time. Attell had plenty of opportunity to show his bonsted eleverness in keeping him away from the rush of the little English boy. Attell seemed to lack force in his punches, and found it extremely difficult to land a blow on a vital spot. Moran's eye was blackened and his nose bled, but the puncheshing rips to the stomach and the swings to the jaw were missing. Moran's game was to lead with either right or left and then close in. In the clinches he fought victously, but did not do Attell much harm. The final round was most exciting. Moran seemed to take on a new lease of vigor and with head down wadod into Attell, swinging rights and lefts. When the gong rang for the close, both men kept on faithing flercely, and big Jim Jeffries had to separate them. Jeffries's decision of a draw was received with approval except by violent partisans. of Attell all the time. Attell had plenty

While interesting, the contest was not particularly exciting, and did not come up to the standard of a championship battle.

Between 7000 and 8000 persons witnessed the contest.

Moran's manager stated that Moran would fight Attell and while he thought Moran had somewhat the better of the fight, he was satisfied with the decision. Referce Jeffries said after the fight that the contest was so close that he found it difficult to give a decision in favor of either man. vor of either man.

He thought Attell had slightly the better of it, on points, but not sufficiently to justify a decision in his favor.

Round one—They shook hands. Attell leading first with left. Attell sent a light leading first with left. Attell sent a light left to the face and they clinched. With one arm free, Moran scored lightly with right to the face and Attell crossed with a pretty right to the head. The men broke from a clinch carefully and Moran shot a wicked left to the face, and they mixed it at close range, without result. Moran missed a right swing and Attell crossed right to the face and then shot his left quickly to the same place. They sparred carefully and Moran swing two rights over the kidneys. Attell hooked a wicked left to the head as the bell rang. Heth fought carefully and Attell had a very slight advantage of the round.

the face. The bell rang, but apparently the fighters did not hear it and they had to be pried apart by Jeffries. It was Attell's round. Attell gave a fine exhibition of clever ducking.

Round three-Moran sent Attell against

Round nine—They came up slowly and Attell swung right to the head, Moran retaliating with a similar punch. They exchanged straight lefts to the face, and Moran forced Attell to the ropes, but failed to land. Another clinch, with ineffectual lightling at close range, followed. Moran sent Attell's head back with a straight left on the forehead, but Attell more than evened it with left to the jaw. Attell fought his man to the ropes and then wrestled him to the center of the ring, which ended in a clinch. Moran drove a stiff left to the face as the bell rang. Attell jabbed straight left to the face and the men broke from a clinch. Attell sent two lefts to the jaw in double-quick order and missed a vicious right for the head. Attell staggered his man with a vicious right to the jaw and a right cross found Moran's nose a resting place. Moran swung a hard right to the jaw and Attell swung a glancing right to the nose. Moran then shot a hard left straight to the face and the men clinched. Moran was playing on Attell's kidneys with rights when the gong ended an even round.

Best Blow of Fight,

Best Blow of Fight.

Round twelve—They sparred slowly and Attell missed left for the jaw. Moran hearly shot through the ropes from a misdirected left swing and quickly covered up as Attell waded in looking for an opening. Both missed several vicious swings and each displayed great cleverness. They wrestled to the ropes, and Moran sent out the banner punch of the light, a vicious right swing flush to the Jaw. Attell came back with a stiff left to the face, and they clinched, Attell appearing a triffs worried. Another clever bit of ducking followed and the bell spike swing to the jaw was the best blow of the fight.

Round thirteem—Attell jabbed with left to face and some desultory sparring followed. Then came another clinch, and Attell missed two fearful long right and left swings that might have ended matters had either one landed. Moran bled slightly from the mouth as they fought, and wrestled against the ropes. Moran swing a vicious left flush to the jaw and Abe fought carefully and his face lost its smile. They continued to converse as they fought, but their remarks were unintelligible. Moran missed left swing for the jaw and they clinched as the bell rang. Moran had a shade.

Round fourteen—Attell opened with a right cross to the head and a clinch followed. They wrestled to the ropes and were pulled apart by the referee. Moran swing a hard right over the kidneys and missed left for the body. Attell warned Moran for holding, while Jeffries prided the fighters apart. Attell then swing right to the jaw and Moran courtered with straight left to the face and the latter smothered a trio of lefts for the stomach. Round afteen—They clashed together, and Aftell cleverly danced away from Moran's right swings. Attell drove a hard left to the body and they clinched. Moran missed hard left and right swings for the body. Both men displayed some clever ducking and footwork. Moran ewing left to the law and followed with right to the stomach. Moran missed a third trial and ducked a hard right swing intended for the jaw. Attell sent straight left to the face and then got in shortarm left and right swings to the eye. Moran's left eye was much swollen as he jumped to his seat. Both men looked serious at this stage, especially Attell, whose face had entirely lost its confident stoile.

Round seventeen—Moran swung a victous left on the shoulder, and in a clinch sent another to the same place. Moran then sweng a hard left to the jaw and Attell reshed to a clinch, referee parting them. Moran ran into a left uppercui and wrestled Attell to the ropes. The latter, his head under Moran's arms, wrestled Moran around the ring and they fought for a minute in that position. Referee Jeffries thrice pulled the wrestlers apart. Attell slipped to his knees, but was up quickly. Moran swung a hard left to the jaw, and a moment later duplicated the blow, the crowd yelling "Moran," "Moran," as the bell rang.

Artell covered to make a straight left to the face and then fight swings to the jaw. Artell severed to make a straight left or leave to make a straight left or the face and fought without effect. The men were locked in an embrace as the going rang. The round was characterized by constant clinching.

Round eight—Attell shot a left high in body and the usual clinch followed. Moran missed left for the face, and after a clinch swing left to the head and then put a straight left to the Hebrew's face, and they clinched. Moran wasted his strength at in-fighting. Moran shot a still left to the stomach and Attell metall with a straight left to the face and they rushed to a clinch. Moran landed a left uppercut lightly to the jaw but attell only smiled as the bell terminated the round. It was a tame round, with honors about even.

Round twenty-four—Moran cuffed his man with left over the eye and missed a hard right swing for the jaw. Attell met Moran with left uppercut to the face as the Briton rushed in. Several clinches followed, Attell finally hooking his left to Moran's stomach. Attell swung his right to the ear as Moran backed against the ropes, and they clinched. The pace slowed up, although neither looked tired. Moran swung left and right to the body and missed a right swing as the round ended. Attell had a slight lead.

Round twenty-five—The men shook hands, and rushed to close quarriers. Moran rocking Abe's head with short-arm right joil to the jaw. They wrestled again, and then Moran whipped in a punishing right to the body. They fought viciously at close range, both landing telling rights to the head. The referee parted the men with difficulty. Attell then shot a wicked left wallop to the face and they mixed it hammer and tongs, wrestling and punching. Moran forced his man to cover up in a last despense raily, in which he outfought his opponent.

ALASKA TEAM GIVEN SURPRISE BY LOCALS

Thousand People Attend Y. M. C. A. New Year Athletic Sports.

The Alaska basketball team was defeated on New Year's afternoon at the Y. M. A. by the association team by a score of 39 to 33 in two of the fastest halves ever seen played on the local gymnasium floor. Alaska was quite confident of winning the game and were much surprised to find such a strong team in the intermountain country. The visitors defeated all the best teams on the coast and looked for clear sailing here. Swan for the visitors threw ten field baskets in the first half, but in the second half he was guarded by Hoisington and could only throw one. The game was attended by over 500 people and as many more were turned away. Those who could not see the game asked that another be scheduled and the Alaska team agreed to remain over one day and play Thursday evening at $3.30, thereby hoping to get even for its first defeat.

Of the members of the Y. M. C. A. team, Hammond threw one field basket, Metralf seven and eight from free throws; Hofmann five and Hoisington two. On the Alaska team, Keown threw one basket, Swan ten and five from free three blying three. The lineup was as follows: Alaska was quite confident of win-

ARIMO IS OVERLOOKED AND HITS RING HARD

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1 .- The New Year's handicap, with a value of $2500, was ron at Emeryville today and proved a gift to R. F. Carman's good galloper, Arimo's previous races had been overlooked by the handicapper and his im-post was only 100 pounds. Although the hookmakers took no liberties with him and made him favorite, he was played for thousands of dollars and the ring was hit
